

What's up?

What's up, man?

Where are you heading?

I'm going home.

How about you?

I'm going home too, man.

Should we walk home or what?

Should we take a bus or what should we do?

No, we can go together, but I don't have money for the bus.

So we might steal a bike, maybe?

Shouldn't we steal that one there? The black one lying over there.

We can easily do that.

The lock seems quite easy doesn't it?

Yep.

What then, shouldn't we take it?

Yep, we'll damn well do it.

Keep an eye out to see if someone is coming.

I don't think there is anyone.

He just left, just do it!

Hurry up! Hurry up! Hurry up!

Watch him! Come on, let's ride man.

Now we can ride home, it's just cool, man.

Yeah man, it's really cool riding home.

Yes, this is Klaus Nordborg Larsen, I'd like to report a bicycle theft.

It's in Risingsvej sixty.

OK, I'll try to find the owner.

Where the heck is that bike, man?

It's bloody incredible.

Sorry, are you the one missing a black bicycle?

I saw two young men take it and ride away on it.

Really?

Yes, and I have reported the theft to the police.

Thanks.

Hi!

Haven't you gone home yet?

No, someone has stolen my bike.

You'll never see it again.

Someone has reported it to the police.

That's just to keep them busy. You'll never see it again

No, but I think I'll go to the police station and have a look anyway.

OK, I'll come with you.

That's just fine.

Sorry, I can't, I have to go to work.

See you.

See you.

What now? What did they say?

They said I'll get it back.

I don't bloody believe that.

No, it'll probably be at the police auction or something similar.

I think so.

Yes, ok.