

I recieved the Word file from you - thank you!
Don't spend to much effort on the layout, I'll edit it anyway, since there are still limitations of what ebooks can contain, please see the red box.

The PDF for print is based on the InDesign file.

I do the editing in Adobe InDesign. Here I make the interactive content page, links , videos etc.

The e-pub is converted to .azw3 or .mobi format via an online converter to make the file readable on Amazon Kindles

The file is then exported to e-pub format. There's still work to do, so I import the file to an XML editor to work in details with the StyleSheet (CCS).

Please don't

- use footers (the ebook doesn't have a fixed pagesize)
- use footnotes on pages (they can be placed in the end of the file if wanted)
- use colored texboxes like this. ebooks don't support that, it will have to be converted to graphic.